Cost of Attendance

The Seminary cost of attendance has increased to match the actual cost of education. For a single, in-residence student the total cost is $37,500 per year (including room and board). This significant increase in cost of attendance will be implemented in three steps by means of a diminishing offer of tuition relief, as follows:

- Fall 2025: All incoming recruits who demonstrate financial need automatically receive $25,000 of tuition relief for the duration of their program and as long as they maintain full-time status, making their effective cost of attendance $12,500/yr.
- Fall 2026: All incoming recruits who demonstrate financial need automatically receive $15,000 of tuition relief for the duration of their program and as long as they maintain full-time status, making their effective cost of attendance $22,500/yr.
- Fall 2027: Incoming recruits get no tuition relief. Their cost of attendance is $37,500/yr.

Tuition relief will be entirely independent of our scholarship program, to which all students, in all years, are welcome to apply. Parameters of financial aid are detailed on the next page.

A complete breakdown of cost of attendance, including adjusted costs for married students, is included on the next page.

If you or your family have any questions or concerns about these changes, I encourage you to reach out to me. I will be happy to talk them through with you.

In Christ,

Gabrielle Bushunow, Registrar
